The First Humans

- Anthropologists (studying the origins of humans) - Louis and Mary Leakey discovered evidence that suggests human beings first appeared in the Great Rift Valley of East Africa (between 200,000 and 400,000 years ago)
- Nomads - Hunters and gatherers
- First human cultures developed (culture is a way of life of a group of people.)

The Neolithic Revolution

- Around 8,000 B.C., some people learned to farm and domesticate animals
- Many archaeologists (social scientists excavating or digging up artifacts or human-made objects to discover prehistoric peoples and cultures) believe this change occurred in the Middle East
- Began in river valleys (Tigris and Euphrates, Nile, Indus, Huang He (Yellow))
- A result was that people began living in permanent settlements
- Agriculture, villages, complex class systems, government
- Rise of civilization (an advanced form of human culture with cities, writing, and technology)

Mesopotamia (3500 B.C. - 1700 B.C.)

- Early civilization located between the Tigris and Euphrates Rivers (present-day Iraq)
- Irrigation led to food surpluses
- Rise of city-states
- Sumerians were a group of people living in Mesopotamia
- Sumerians developed cuneiform (an early writing system) and built ziggurats (temples)
- Another people of Mesopotamia (Babylonians) developed the world's earliest written law code
- The Code of Hammurabi had harsh punishments and class divisions (wealthy people could sometimes pay a fine to avoid physical punishment)
The Greeks

- Ancient Greece consisted of a large mountainous peninsula and the islands of the Aegean Sea
- Seas used for trade
- Trade increased cultural diffusion (sharing of cultural ideas and objects)
- Adopted the Phoenician alphabet
- Mountains separated the early Greek city-states
- Each city acted as a separate country although shared a common culture based on language, religious beliefs, and customs
- Athens and Sparta were important city-states
  - Sparta was a militaristic city-state, slaves (helots) farmed, and strict discipline was emphasized
  - Athens developed direct democracy (only free men born in Athens - women, slaves, and foreigners could not vote), experienced a golden age (Socrates, Plato, and Aristotle were important philosophers - built the Parthenon and its columns - theater and mathematics)
- A rivalry developed between Athens and Sparta which led to the Peloponnesian War - after thirty years, Sparta emerged as the victor

Alexander the Great

- In 338 B.C., the king of Macedonia brought all of the Greek city-states under his control
- His son, Alexander the Great, went on to conquer most of the Mediterranean world, including Persia and Egypt
- Extended his conquests to the Indus River Valley
- Empire collapsed shortly after his death
- His conquests spread Hellenism (a Greek-like culture - a blend of Greek, Persian, Egyptian, and Indian influences)
